

Consumers, Take Action

Remedial steps you can take if you have been defrauded

ANDREW BAILEY

MISSOURI ATTORNEY GENERAL

Overview

If your muffler still rattles after it was fixed or your $250 catalog order still hasn't arrived after two months, you can try several remedies before filing a lawsuit as your last action.

A carefully worded complaint, cancellation of a sales contract or pursuit of monetary losses of up to $5,000 in small claims court are all options for you before turning to a lawyer.

Register a complaint

Contact the offending party and try to settle your dispute first before contacting outside help.

Complaints will be more effective if you send copies of receipts and other documents explaining your case.

If you are contacting the store or business by mail, send your complaint letter by registered mail and keep a copy for your records. If you are making your complaint in person, try to remain calm, but be firm and make sure you understand the other party.

Cancel your contract

Missouri law provides a right of cancellation for certain types of transactions:

If you sign a home-solicited credit sales contract, you may cancel the sale if you send a written notice to the company within three business days after the date of transaction. Keep a copy.

Once the business receives your notice, it has 10 days to refund any goods or money that has been received, return any signed documents and inform you the business will pick up or let you keep items that were left behind.

There are exceptions for emergency home repairs, sales and services, or cases in which circumstances do not allow the goods to be returned in as good condition as they were in when the buyer received them.

You also may cancel within three days any contract in which your house was put up as collateral or security for the contract.

Contracts for vacation timeshares can be canceled within five days.

FILE A COMPLAINT

To file a complaint with the Attorney General's Office, go online or call the Consumer Protection Hotline:

Contact Better Business Bureau, AG's Office

Contact your local Better Business Bureau and the Attorney General's Office and file a formal complaint if you're not satisfied with a business.

If an individual or a business is violating the law, then action will be quicker if you contact both offices simultaneously.

If the offending party is located outside Missouri, then also contact that state's attorney general.

The Better Business Bureau, has offices in St. Louis (314-645-3300), Kansas City (816-421-7800) and Springfield (417-862-4222). It offers a free consumer arbitration service to settle disputes between businesses and consumers.

Both parties must agree to the process and any decision of the arbitrator is legally binding. An attorney is not needed. The arbitration process can be handled by mail, phone or in the office.

Contact your credit card company

CREDIT CARDS

Credit card companies may offer you some protection in disputes involving purchases.

If you used a credit card to pay for a disputed service or product, you may be able to recover your money from your credit card company.

Write your credit card company a letter recording details of the matter. However, there is a deadline. You must mail the letter within 60 days after you receive the disputed bill.

Contact an agency to help resolve complaints

Missouri consumers should take aggressive action to halt misleading business practices.

To help consumers take action, the Attorney General's Office has a list of agencies and organizations familiar with consumer complaints and questions.

If you have encountered problems with an individual or business, you can:

- Contact the company in writing regarding your problem. Always keep a copy.
- Never send original documents, such as bills, to a company.
- Consider contacting one of the following agencies if you are unable to resolve the problem.

File a lawsuit in small claims court

Missouri's small claims court can help consumers with such problems as a landlord who won't return a deposit or a repairman who said he fixed a pipe that still leaks.

Under state law, consumers who have a claim for up to $5,000 can, without hiring a lawyer, file a lawsuit in small claims court to recoup their money.

Before you file suit in small claims court, make sure there is no other way of settling your dispute. You may save yourself a lot of time and effort.

HOW SMALL CLAIMS LAWSUITS ARE FILED

- The plaintiff (the consumer who files the lawsuit) submits the legal documents in the associate circuit court of the county in which he lives. The associate circuit court is housed in the county courthouse. If the person or business you are suing is located in another county or if the product or service was bought in another county, you should file the lawsuit in that county.
- Forms for small claims court are available at www.courts.mo.gov.
- Once the lawsuit is filed, a hearing date is scheduled. Hearings may be held in the evening or on Saturday.
- There are modest filing fees in small claims court. You also must pay the cost of mailing the summons by certified mail or delivering it by the sheriff.
- Consumers can file only twelve lawsuits a year in small claims court.

HOW TO PREPARE YOUR SMALL CLAIMS LAWSUIT

Some points to remember:

1. Organize relevant materials such as bills, receipts and letters so you can make a complete and orderly presentation at the hearing.
2. Prepare a full but brief statement of the facts in your case.
3. Determine what witnesses, if any, you want to have testify. Reluctant witnesses may be subpoenaed if they are important.
4. Check with the court before the hearing to find out if the defendant has been served with the summons. If service has not been made, the clerk can tell you your options. You may seek a continuance — or postponement — of the court date for this or a similar good reason.
5. Be on time for the hearing. Failure to do so may result in dismissal of your lawsuit.

WHAT HAPPENS IN COURT

When the court date arrives, the consumer who filed the lawsuit tells his side of the story to the judge. The consumer can call witnesses or use any additional information to explain his case.

The defendant (the party being sued) also explains his side of the story to the judge. Do not be intimidated if the defendant is represented by an attorney. The judge has a responsibility to ensure the proceedings remain informal so your lack of legal knowledge will not hinder you.

The judge then questions all parties associated with the case before making a final decision.

If the judge rules in favor of the consumer who filed the lawsuit, the losing party in the case must pay that consumer.

Court officials, however, do not collect money associated with the judge's ruling.

Consumers who have trouble recouping money awarded in small claims court have additional legal remedies under the law. Associate circuit court officials can explain those options.

The losing party in small claims court also can file an application for a new trial, which will be heard in circuit court. (You usually will need a lawyer's help.) Those applications must be filed in small claims court within 10 days after the judge's order or the losing party in the case is liable for costs associated with the judgment.

Seek legal action in other courts

When other remedies fail and if small claims court is not available to you because the amount in controversy is more than $5,000, you may want to pursue your case in court. You may wish to contact a lawyer to help you.

Missourians who think they have been defrauded or victimized by unfair practices can file a lawsuit under consumer protection laws seeking actual damages.

In addition to contract and fraud claims, Missourians are offered legal recourse under the Merchandising Practices Act. This law protects Missourians against unfair, misleading and deceptive practices in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise or the solicitation of any funds for any charitable purposes in Missouri.

The law, found in Chapter 407 of the Missouri Revised Statutes, allows any person who buys or leases goods or services primarily for personal, family or household use and suffers an ascertainable loss of money or personal property as a result of unfair or deceptive trade practices to bring a private civil action.

The lawsuit may be filed in either the circuit court of the county in which the seller or lessor resides or in which the transaction took place to recover actual damages. The court may at its discretion award punitive damages (damages awarded in excess of normal compensation to the plaintiff to punish a defendant for a serious wrong) and may award to the prevailing party attorney's fees, based on the amount of time reasonably spent.
